Condemn One And the Editor Comments On Kiln Road Easements McCarty Blasts Press

The county board of supervisors Monday instituted condemnations proceedings against George Armstrong and his wife, Bobby, as it moved to clear last obstacles in securing easements for the proposed construction of the new Kiln Road by the state.

After special sessions last Friday, Monday and again yesterday in the face of the state-imposed deadline on the project, supervisors working with assistance of Surveyor Roland Weston, Attorney Sam M. Favre Jr. and J. Norton Hays indicated agreements could be secured from seven other property owners along the right of way who had not yet formally signed necessary papers.

Filing of the suit enables the state to go ahead with its portion of the work, regardless of the findings of the court of eminent domain and Friday the board (Cont. on Page 10.)

On the announced topic of Freedom of the Press, County Superintendent of Education Kenneth C. McCarty lashed out Monday at the Sea Coast Echo and the Waveland Advocate charging inaccuracy in reporting and unfairness to him. Speaking to the Gulfview School Parent-Teacher Association, he denied that the county board of education had any thought of closing the Gulfview School as reported by the two newspapers. (EDITOR'S NOTE: Neither paper ever so stated and McCarty is inaccurate and unfair.)

He said such reports get into the press, referring to the two papers directly, without any of local officials. McCarty pointed out that in America there is freedom of the press and newspapers can do as they wish where as in Russia officials tell newspapers what they can print and when. The superintendent said that while the American system is far better, newspapers can go off and read as they wish. (EDITOR'S NOTE: While denying it, McCarty appears to advocate the dictator system and we'll admit that no official's permission to print what occurs will ever be asked by us. Who has what to hide?)

He claimed that the Echo and the Advocate have had him on the defense since January. McCarty rapped the Echo for inferring he opposed basketball in the schools, adding that he doesn't oppose basketball but does oppose basketball without a balance of other curricula. (EDITOR'S NOTE: At the end of January 1960, this editor had never commented in any way on McCarty, but McCarty had openly slandered the paper and has used the taxpayer's money in an effort to intimidate the paper. The Echo never at any time said McCarty opposed basketball.)

Also, he rapped the two papers for "being tough" with Gordon Courrage, the successful candidate last week for the Best 5 seat in the county board of education. (EDITOR'S NOTE: The only comment made about Mr. Courrage, except for the mention of his name in an editorial dealing with Mrs. C. C. McDonald, was interpreted before printed by three persons as being favorable to Mr. Courrage's candidacy and (Cont. on Page 2.)

The county school system's over due payments on transportation loans from the board of supervisors were fixed Wednesday at $20,016.67 plus interest, culminating several weeks of controversy about non-payment raised when the school board asked to borrow another $12,500 to buy two new buses.

Sam L. Favre Jr., attorney for the supervisors, placed the blame for the confusion on poor bookkeeping in the offices of the responsible officials.

At the supervisors' session devoted primarily to unraveling the tangled finances, Walter James Phillips, school board attorney, complained that failure to keep the county board register up to date made it impossible to determine the maturity schedule and Favre's subsequent examination bore out this contention.

Favre discovered that the 1955 and 1957 loans had never been entered in the register and after checking old auditors' minutes of the supervisors and other data, directed that the present chancery clerk's staff bring the register up to date.

The two attorneys went over the figures in detail and at the conclusion Phillips concurred that Favre's list "is technically correct, but..." He pleaded that the school system is too strapped financially to pay that money back now, adding that although the budget earmarks $8,000 for notes this year, it's likely the supervisors will only get about $6,000 in the end.

Phillips called for a one mill hike for schools, noting that could have been provided this year when a mill was cut from the county-wide road and bridge bond fund, without causing any increase.

Favre suggested that, if a mill were added for schools, it should be earmarked for bond repayment or a mill of the existing levy should be channeled to that.

Enrollment Is Down 30 in City Schools

A net decrease of 30 pupils in the Bay St. Louis municipal separate school district for the current session was reported by Superintendent Joe D. McCulloch when the board of trustees met Monday night.

He said enrollment in the high school division is up 50 while elementary enrollment is 80 less than last year. The total is approximately 1,500 in the system with some 1,000 white pupils and 500 Negroes.

A master plan was presented for insuring all buildings in the system on a five-year renewal basis which McCulloch said would result in considerable rate reduction while payments could be made annually, interest-free. He proposed dividing the coverage among three local agencies provided they can meet interest-free payment specifications.

Trustees asked to study copies of the plan before acceptance. The schedule is the result of a recent survey made by an insurance specialist. It was pointed out that payment of the premiums could be made to one agency which would distribute the money.

On recommendation of the superintendent approval was given to borrow money from the City of Bay St. Louis and a bank to meet current expenses, including payroll, for November and December in anticipation of tax receipts. Bank loans were split to save interest. The city has approved a $10,000 non-interest loan and another $10,000 to be anticipated from the county for automobile tax receipts. About $60,000 is needed.

A bill of $424 from Scaffold Brothers was approved for removing stumps and clearing land at North Bay Elementary School. Additional work was approved when it noted there were more stumps than anticipated. Trustee Maurice Artigue suggested that fill be purchased and placed on part of the land that formed a part of a wall, saying dirt could be purchased and moved cheaply now because of good weather. New Chamber Directors Elected at Annual Meet

Three new directors were among the six elected to the board of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce at its general membership meeting Monday night. The new members are David N. McDonald, Powell Glass Jr. and Andy J. Becker, all for two years.

Re-elected were W. R. Gordon and H. Hardin Shattuck, two years, and James C. DeBlanc, one year. A. G. Damagran, Warren Carver and August J. Scaffid all have another year to serve on their present terms.

Damagran, president of the chamber, presented a report of its activities and accomplishments during the past year. He pointed up the large quantity of literature the chamber had distributed, the inquiries about Hancock County that had been received, the growth of the area and that he "was disappointed even more had not been accomplished". He added that in recent weeks his real estate business had had many more than usual prospects.

Carver read the financial report for the year which showed that the chamber's bank balance was $400 greater than a year ago, and J. Cyril Glover told the group of E. M. Brignac's contribution of an elaborate Christmas display. The display, some 150 feet long, until this year was used by Maison Blanche of New Orleans, and St. Augustine's Seminary has given permission for it to be erected on the school's property fronting on U. S. 90. Brignac is paying the cost of moving and erecting the display. (Cont. on Page 5.)

'Peeping Tom' Gets 30 Days

An alleged peeping Tom was arrested last week after numerous complaints by Bay St. Louis citizens.

City policeman Latham Garriga said he got a call about 6:15 a.m. Friday from a resident of State Street and upon arriving at the scene the man ran toward the beach. Garriga gave chase and arrested the man after he ran into the water at Washington Street, he said. He was identified as Orval Gibson, 28, of Washington, D. C., and confessed to three previous convictions for breaking and entering.

Gibson was tried before Justice of the Peace Nellus Rhodes, found guilty of trespassing and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail. Assisting in the arrest was Deputy Sheriff Gerald V. Price Jr., Rhodes said.

5,000 March in Vets Day Parade

Approximately 5,000 people marched in a mile-long parade Friday honoring America's war veterans.

The parade terminated at the Courthouse where ceremonies were conducted by Clement R. Bontemps Post 139, American Legion.

Russell Elliott who has been master of ceremonies at the affair for numerous years told the crowd the occasion was not just a holiday for children it was in honor of departed and living veterans who are ever on the alert against Communism. He expressed thanks for the participation of the community and the bands who marched, saying the young people present were the "future of America."

Robert L. Rice, post commander of the Gulfport post, said "I would like the Russian tyrant Khrushchev to see this gathering today, a wonderful demonstration of Democracy."

"I am sure the gentlemen here from Keesler Air Force Base are proud to see that they are backed so strongly by citizens and young people. This country has known real freedom. The Constitution is the greatest document ever written but it does not guarantee our freedom. It requires nourishment from day to day," the speaker continued.

"America stands to the world as the beacon light of freedom. If we fall the whole world will fall to Communism. We must have faith in each other. We must have loyalty and faith in our community such as you have shown here today to keep from becoming another satellite of Communism."

"We must follow the back to God movement of the American Legion. A country that puts God first will survive."

"This post is the most active of all I have known. Every program on the Legion agenda is carried out fully."

Census Gives Hancock Hike Of 18 Per Cent

Hancock County's population increased more than 2,000 in the past decade, according to the 1960 census report issued this week.

The 1950 count gave Hancock a population of 11,891 and the new figure is 14,039, a gain of more than 17 per cent.

The Bay St. Louis population increased 452 since 1950 and is now 5,073 whereas the 1950 count was 4,621 and the 1940 count was 4,138.

The increase of 313 people in Bay St. Louis is shown for Waveland which now has a population of 1,176. The 1950 count was 793.

All three counts are consistently higher than the preliminary census report issued in May. The early report gave the county a population of 14,020 and Waveland 1,081.

The population of each beat according to the final report is: Beat 1, 1,333; Beat 2, 869; Beat 3, 1,147; Beat 4, 838 and Beat 5, 1,853. A beat-by-beat breakdown for 1950 is not available for the county for comparison. The report shows that 36.1 (Cont. on Page 5.)

Misunderstandings

Possibly as a result of a misunderstanding by the board of the Hancock General Hospital, the board awarded the bid for a station wagon they needed to an out-of-county dealer. Our reporter, who did not see the actual bids, reported what was read out at the meeting. (See correction on Page 1.)

That is, however, not the point of our comment. The Echo goes to the expense of covering these meetings of public bodies, who rule us and spend OUR money, to give the voters and taxpayers some idea of whether they are getting efficient and honest government. In the case of the hospital board, we are sure they are honest and more efficient than most of us.

Bankston Motors' bid was to furnish two automobiles, a fact misunderstood by the board, while Porter's Pontiac submitted a bid for a eight cylinder car, when the board had advertised for a six cylinder one. Nevertheless, for a difference of $4 the board awarded the contract to a non-local dealer, though delivered through a local agency.

We still advocate BUY LOCALLY.

Kennedy 2,132 Is Final Vote

The official Hancock County tally in last week's election gives John Kennedy 2,132 votes, Richard Nixon 719 and the unpledged electors 502.

The final results were announced following a meeting of the board of election commissioners last Thursday morning.

The report also gives Sen. James O. Eastland 2,500 to the 447 votes cast for Republican aspirant Joe A. Moore, Sixth District Rep. William M. Colmer of Pascagoula received a total of 2,502 votes and Second District State Supreme Court Judge R. Olney Arrington of Hazlehurst total 2,160.

The commissioners also told the results of the elections in favor of the five amendments.

Program at Brignac Farm

Cattle Care, Soil Procedures Outlined at Beef Field Day

Some 35 Hancock and Harrison County farmers were told and shown the latest procedures in soil conservation and cattle care Tuesday during a Beef Cattle Field Day program on the Angus farm of E. M. Brignac, north of Kila.

O. O. Sworde, County agent, said various speakers advised the farmers on modern farm procedures. He said the event was held at the Brignac farm because of the installation there of a hydroponics green feeds unit which provides for the year around growing of feed.

The unit, only one installed in the county, is a building in which, with artificial sunlight, controlled temperature, automatic irrigation and other features, a crop of green feed is harvested every six days. The unit can produce three and a half tons of green feed a week.

Speakers included Brignac, E. E. Grissom, animal husbandman at State College, Dr. W. S. Stewart, Picaune veterinarian; A. G. Bennett, State College entomologist; Pat Rogers, county ASC office manager, and Hugh C. Sanford, working conservationist in the Hancock County soil conservation district.

Grissom told the farmers that they are not growing a uniform herd of calves for market and recommended a better feeding program and a closer check on the cattle to overcome this program. He cited the need to grow heavier calves and explained that the principal feed necessary for this is hay and protein meals with salt and minerals.

Lice control is costing the average farmer at least $6 a month per head of cattle, Dr. Stewart reported. He said lice can be easily controlled by using a cheap poison called rotenone. He explained that worms, another problem of the cattle raiser, can be easily checked by rotating cattle from one pasture to another.

The veterinarian pointed out that many farmers are treating for liver flukes but that there are none in Mississippi.

Dr. Bennett spoke on insecticides controlling internal or external parasites of cattle. He urged the farmers to follow the recommendations given either by the county agent or the veterinarian.

He said the activities of the soil conservation district and the importance of using soil capability methods in making up a farm plan and in planning a year around grazing program.

The importance of requesting financial assistance when needed was told by Rogers. He said his office will share the cost of planning with farmers.

John W. Smith, assistant county agent, also helped with the arrangements. Charles May, herdman on the Brignac farm, assisted in explaining the various procedures and programs of the farm.

Then he added that "public contentment will defeat it (the severance) if it continues in the same direction it is in." (EDITOR'S NOTE: Always possible, but we'll try to inform the public not only of who has had guests but also of what its officials do and say.)

Referring back to the closing of the school report, the superintendent claimed that "they had intended to close your school if I hadn't been elected." He said that the school will remain open as long as he is in office. (EDITOR'S NOTE: McCarty has and had no authority in the matter as he claimed to the board. He can recommend to the county board of education. He doesn't even have a vote. He is merely its clerk.)

Inferring that the Echo's dishonesty, McCarty at one point looked over at the Echo reporter covering the meeting and commented he is sorry to see "such a nice young man" connected with such a newspaper. (EDITOR'S NOTE: Why comment on statements such as this?)

Following McCarty's remarks, Dr. Paul Pringley, P-TA representative, gave and summarized

Letters to the Editor

Editor, Sea Coast Echo

I see that the county stands to lose the allocated funds for the Kila Road if right of ways are not speedily obtained.

If individuals involved in obtaining these easements and their necessary paper work for nearly a year spent less time at civic club bull sessions, politics, coffee breaks and sidewalk chat chat, this job could have been done many months ago.

This is a very good answer also for the people who keep asking why industry hasn't come to this county.

MISS MAMIE CROWELL

Editor, Sea Coast Echo

Why is it that some people don't recognize the Baptist Church as being a church. For example: Friday, Nov. 11, there was a parade for Veterans Day. The school bands played their instruments while we marched. They played while we passed the Baptist Church but they stopped playing when they passed the graveyard and the Catholic Church. It seems as if there wasn't any other church but the Catholic Church and I don't think it was right. I feel that everyone should recognize all churches because they are all places to go to and worship God.

I don't have anything against the Catholic Church but this is not the only church people should recognize.

Invocation was by Rt. Rev. Messrs. Martin Moloney. Welcoming address was by Mayor John Scalfide.

Also participating were Deep Sea Rodeo Queen Gayle Parker and forestry queen Kathleen Schaefer. In a brief talk Sheriff Gerald V. Price said he was proud to be a Legion member, an organization dedicated to defeating Communism.

Chairman of the proceedings was Fred E. Fayard, past commander of the Bontemps Post whom Elliott introduced as having just received the highest honor in any post, that of a lifetime membership. Benediction was by the Rev. Charles R. Johnson.

Leading the parade was the Highway Safety Patrol, City Police, Sheriff's and Constable's Patrol, followed by city and county officials, Spanish American War Veterans, the rodeo and forestry queens, American Legion colors, Keesler Drum and Bugle Corps, American Legion auxiliary and juniors, Cub and Boy Scouts, Brownies and Girl Scouts, Bay High band and students, Christ Episcopal, Logtown, Hancock North Central and Our Lady of the Gulf Schools, Ocean Springs High band, St. Joseph Academy and St. Stanislaus students.

After election of the directors Scalfide brought up for discussion the development of a public beach launching ramp and told of the troubles his committee had in securing a satisfactory location for one. He added that he didn't feel chamber members had supported the project as much as they should have. The members present voiced the view that additional efforts be made to obtain a proper site and concurred that the Bay St. Louis area needed such a facility.

The board is scheduled to meet at City Hall at 5:30 p.m. Monday primarily to elect officers.

The fireplace before which the bride and groom stood, was adorned with magnolia foliage and large arrangements of white and golden chrysanthemums. Tall multi-branched silver candelabras holding ivory tapers further enhanced the setting.

The bride chose a short wedding frock of ivory tulle with a high collar and long sleeves. The bodice of Alencon lace was encrusted with seed pearls and the gown featured a flared skirt in the back. Gardenia blossoms formed a crown over her Empire collar and adorned the hair. She carried a old-fashioned bouquet of ivory lilies and gardenias.

STARTS THANKSGIVING DAY

LOBRANO, Wilson Score for Rocks

A recovered fumble in the final quarter set up a touchdown to keep St. Stanislaus from being blanked but they went down to defeat at the hands of St. Aloystus Crusaders 32-7 Friday night at St. Stanislaus Stadium to close the Rocks' football season.

Feast for Thanksgiving

Limits on geese is five, possession five. This may not include more than two Canada or sub-species or two white-fronted or one white-fronted and one Canada. Wonder if anyone is having wild geese for Thanksgiving? Mmmmm...

Season on bobwhite quail opens Wednesday, the day before Thanksgiving and lasts through Jan. 31, 1961. Bag limit is eight per day, 16 in possession.

Monday opens the deer season which closes Dec. 1 which only allows 11 days for hunting. One of our scouts reports he has seen quite a few this year. Hunting is permitted north of U. S. 90 in Hancock County.

Fishing was very good last week through Saturday, strong winds slowing things down somewhat Sunday but it picked up again later in the week, although not up to last week's level.

Most of the reports we got indicate the fish are up the bayous and rivers. The Bordages brothers reported good fishing on the Bayou. Another cold spell is needed, though.

Among those readying their equipment for the duck season are Jack Chevis, D. C. Griffin, Wayne Alliston, Alden Meunier, Joe Kern, Doc McKinley, Jack and Sylvan Lecher. (It would be impossible to compile a list of names without a couple of L. A. d-z-z-z-z.)

Dan's Batting Average

A. G. Demagnan's fishing average last week was 1,000. He and Ed Clark went out three days in a row in Bayou Caddy, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, catching more than 60 nice specks. They averaged from one and a half to three pounds, also one three and a half and one four pounds. Thursday was the best day, Dan said.

A. C. (Mitch) Mitchell went out the Jordan late Monday but didn't do so much, too late and too much wind, he said. Says he isn't going to make the opening of the duck season but will be toting his gun come Wednesday.

Jimmy Giametta says he is going to take his two sidekicks, Richard Schaefer and Johnny Kramer and head for the marshes Sunday.

Lawrence Cox (or is it Lecher?) got a good catch on the railroad bridge Sunday on plugs. Plenty big ones, Mrs. Cox said. Among the Washington and Hancock Street anglers, Eddie Blazie got 15 off the highway bridge Wednesday morning using a Senor with a bucktail trailer. His first strike was a double header, one hitting the lure and the other the trailer. All the rest hit the bucktail. Rita didn't go, says this weather gives her pneumonia.

Toby Foyard caught five specks in Bayou Caddy Tuesday on live bait. Says he isn't going back until we have another norther. Uncle John Green was trolling for trout on the highway bridge Wednesday morning with a red plug and bucktail and came home with some nice flounder.

Among the Waveland-Clement Harbor fishermen, Bob Torgerson, Basil Cockshot and Frank Simmons tried Bayou Caddy last week and say they didn't do so hot. But then they are spoiled by the terrific fishing in the Louisiana marshes during the past few months.

Other Wavelanders loading up last week on speckled trout were Fred Herlihy, Harold Zimmerman, Willie Bordages, Sidney Bourgeois, Buddy Dufour and Sam Blanchard.

The annual invitational tournament this weekend at Pass Christian Lakes Golf Club is sure to draw a lot of golfers as well as mosquitoes. Mrs. Boss returned from her weekly match Tuesday afternoon scratching and complaining of the pests. From the looks of a couple of swollen bites on her face somebody must have been swatting mosquitoes with a No. 2 iron.

This Course Pays Off

Our City Hall score, Jack Buckl, tells us he was in the Chamber of Commerce office Wednesday and a representative of a company featuring a memory course was talking to Mrs. Mabel Green, manager-secretary. According to Jack, when the memory course salesman left he said "goodbye Mrs. Moore."

Jack also said he ate his first boiled shrimp Monday. He was covering a Girl Scout meeting and one of the ladies handed him a shrimp. Says he looked the darn thing over and all he could see was legs. Hated to embarrass the lady but didn't know what to do with it.

To 1st Cage Win Krieger Paces SJA

St. Joseph Academy's Blue Jays opened their baseball season Friday trouncing Harrison Central 61-49 on the Academy's hardwood. The junior varsity squad took the opener 35-19.

High scorer for the varsity was Mary Jo Krieger who racked up an amazing 35 points while Judy Favre hit the bucket for 23. Cassie Rhodes got 4. A fine defensive game was turned in by guards Sheila Genschall, Marge Jacob and Erin Artigue.

Forward Faye Mont was high for the juniors with 15 backed by Bonita French, Yvonne Artigue, Sue Rhodes, Pat Kelly, Bea Maytagh and Lindy Orlin. Outstanding guard was Mitzi Blache.

Date of the next game will be announced next week.

Demos Invited To Victory Event

Leading Hancock County Democrats are expected to attend the Coast Democratic Victory Banquet and Ball at Edgewater Gulf Hotel Saturday.

Russell Elliott, county Democratic campaign chairman, said refreshments will be served at 7 p.m. and the banquet will be at 8 p.m. Tickets at $3.50 each are available from Elliott and J. Cyril Glover.

Elliott, Glover, Earl Remond, Frank Quintel and Mayor Garfield Lecher of Waveland have received special invitations to the event for their parts in the presidential campaign.

Lee's Leads Bowling

Play in the mixed Alley Cero Bowling League opened Monday night at Bay Bowling Center on U. S. 90 with Lee's Plumbing of Waveland coping high scoring honors for the night.

Members of the team are Lee and Zeliga Ferrell, Warren Lecher, all of Waveland, Larry Nacotte and Claude Wilson of Bay St. Louis.

Playing with handicap total pins for three games, Lee's Plumbing got 1,900 pins; Coast Electric, 1,851; Gulf Chevrolet No. 1, 1,793; Parker's Grocery, 1,786; Gulf Chevrolet No. 2, 1,782 and Mike's 1,715.

Mrs. David P. Schaefer, assistant manager, announced that a free clinic for children is scheduled for 9 a.m. Sunday. Also that another men's league is forming for Wednesday nights and a few openings are available.

The bowling center will be closed Thanksgiving Day until 3 p.m.

State Women's Golf Officers Are Elected

Officers of the Mississippi Women's Golf Assn. were elected Tuesday from among the membership at Pass Christian Lakes Golf Club which will be host to the 1961 tournament next spring.

Chosen were Mrs. Powell Glass Jr., president; Mrs. John David, vice president and tournament chairman; Mrs. J. W. Waggoner, secretary; and Mrs. W. T. Johnston, treasurer.

They were proposed by a nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Lester Walters, Mrs. Jack Lang and Miss Ann Livergood.

Winners in the weekly tournament Tuesday, an odd or even hole event, were Mrs. Dee Hendrix, in the 18-hole class with a net 38. Mrs. William Cooley in the nine-hole division with a net 22 and Mrs. Glass, low points, 14.

PCI Golf Club Hosts Tourney This Weekend

Pass Christian Lakes Golf Club will play host to its annual invitational tournament this weekend with a record entry from along the Mississippi Gulf Coast and neighboring Louisiana areas expected to compete, according to Eddie Holmes, chairman.

Roundies will close at noon Friday and 18 holes of medal play are scheduled both Saturday and Sunday, the first day's scoring determining the flight to which golfers are assigned. The traditional barbecue is Saturday night and is included in the entry fee of $10 per player.

Professional Dick Turleau has the course in near perfect condition for the tournament, winter grass on the greens growing healthily. The only deterrent is expected to be posed by the mosquitoes which remain around in great numbers, particularly in the wooded areas.

Women members are being asked to handle the concession stands on the course and are requested to call Mrs. Holmes at GL 2-2892 for hours.

First 10th Section Timber Sold Monday

First sale of timber from 10th Section land since the re-forestation program began some years ago was approved by the board of supervisors Monday. Lone bidder was Sam Whitfield who offered $2,391 for pine pulpwood on about a 200-acre tract in the Catahoula section.

Stephens Girl Feted on Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron H. Stephens feted their daughter, Glinda Gail, on the occasion of her eighth birthday at their home in Lake Charles, La., Nov. 14. Refreshments were served from a table laid with a Belgian curlew cloth and centered with a birthday cake frosted in red and white.

appointed Favre to carry out this work. Favre reported later he had filed the case before Justice of the Peace Frank Selph in Beat 4 since he resided closest to the property the jurors must inspect. Hearing is set for Dec. 14.

Monday the board approved payment of $4,400 to Mrs. Melvo Haas to move her building through which the new road will pass. Attention was called to the fact that the insurance company of the man killed when his car plunged over the Jordan River bridge on the road had not yet fixed the guard rail as they had agreed.

Schools Behind (Cont. from Page 1.) called, to no avail, on the state auditor to determine the amount past due, objected to raising taxes to pay a debt, saying the voters would blame the supervisors for lending the money. Beat 2 Supervisor I. M. Frierson remarked people without children would object to more taxes for this purpose.

Hubbard suggested inviting the school board in to find out how this money can be repaid by 1963, perhaps with a loan from the 10th section fund to pay off the bonds and set up a new amortization schedule. He criticized school authorities for saying they did not need two mills two years ago, adding that operations were lax when funds allocated where not applied to repayment of notes.

Favre concurred that "bad budgeting" was involved and recalled, when he held the superintendent's office from 1944-48, he kept a balanced budget. The analysis of accounts showed $2,000 due on a 1953 note; a total of $5,333.33 on 1955 issues; $4,100 on 1957 issues, $3,000 on 1958 loans and $353.34 on 1959. Hubbard grumbled that erosion had been made on our security schedule in the bond register and other taxes peddled in. He said he felt the supervisors were at fault for not detecting the overdue figures earlier, but Phillips held that the supervisors were no more responsible than the school board. Favre added that after the proper resolution is put on the minute books, the supervisors are not responsible. He asked what is the county auditor for and declared that it was assumed those in charge were doing their jobs. Phillips had come into the meeting believing $11,000 was over due from his investigation and Mrs. Edio Degrea, secretary in the superintendent's office, was asked to bring in her ledger for a check. Superintendent K. G. McCarty who had been asked to appear was in Stidell.

time ago was approved by the board of supervisors Monday. Lone bidder was Sam Whitfield who offered $2,391 for pine pulpwood on about a 200-acre tract in the Catahoula section.

Jerry Prescott, southeast district management forester, advised against selling other types of timber now because of low prices. He outlined to plant 300,000 slash seedling trees and direct seed 100 acres in the De-doux over a five-year period at a cost of $4,525 which the board approved.

The board also agreed to ask the State Forestry Commission to approve residential subdivision of the 10th section land at Jackson Ridge, taking the view proceeds from that would be better than timber sales.

Lease for trapping rights in Jackson Marsh was awarded to Placide Bourgeois on a high bid of $151. Others bidding were Forest Macdonald and Ory Bourgeois. Supervisors heard at length from representatives of From-hans Engineers of New Orleans in answer to its recent inquiries about having an industrial survey made of the county. It was agreed to ask all prospective bidders to submit their proposals on Jan. 15.

At Wednesday's session, Dr. John F. Dicks and Waveland

Major Charles L. Laverne, representing the Beach Glass Up Association, reported the $1,000 they had undertaken to raise had been reached with Waveland and Bay St. Louis making up the remaining $500 so the county could proceed with clearing of the beach. A special beach clearing fund was established and the contract is expected to be signed with the successful bidder this Monday.
